

Did you know?

Dragonflies like to sun themselves, and the warmth of flat rocks provide the perfect setting. Try a mix of light and dark rocks and observe which color attracts more dragonflies to your area!

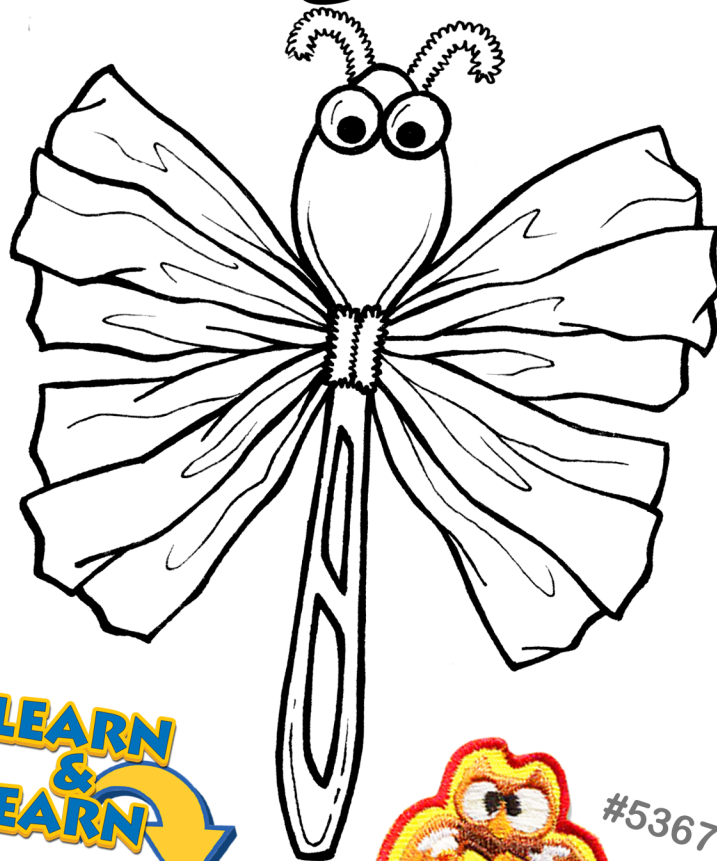

What you will need

- ☐ Plastic Spoon
- ☐ Paint and brushes
- ☐ 2 Coffee Filters
- ☐ Colored Markers
- ☐ Pipe Cleaner
- ☐ Googly Eyes
- ☐ Glue
- ☐ Spraybottle with Water

Let's Get Creative!

- 1 Color two coffee filters with colored markers. When done coloring, take your spray bottle with water and spray lightly until the color begins to run for a tie-dye effect. Set aside to dry.
- 2 Paint the plastic spoon. Set aside to dry.
- 3 Glue a pair of googly eyes onto the back of the painted spoon.
- 4 Fold each coffee filter in half and pinch in the middle. Attach each wing filter onto the plastic spoon's neck by twisting a pipe cleaner together around the pinched areas. Allow some excess pipecleaner for the antennae.
- 5 Create antennae using the ends of the pipe cleaner and glue in place. You're done!
